RELIEVED PAIN IN SHORT TIME

Suffering Intensely, Fearing Paralysis,
Mrs. Harry Lane Tries
Modern Remedy.

How quickly this modern remedy gives results is shown by the statement of Mrs. Harry Lane of 1087 West Eighteenth street, Tyrone, Pa. She says:

"I suffered intensely for some time with a severe pain in my shoulder and arm which was so severe at times that I began to fear paralysis."

"Nothing I did gave me relief until a friend advised me to use 20TH CENTURY LINIMENT."

"With the first application I experienced relief and with a short treatment the pain was entirely removed. I am sure I will be glad to recommend 20TH CENTURY LINIMENT to my friends."

Get this modern remedy at your druggist's or at your general store, 50 cents and $1.

SOME FORESTRY STATISTICS

The total area covered by virgin timber in Pennsylvania is not over 200,000 acres, and is probably nearer 100,000 acres. Fifty years ago the area was over 15,000,000 acres.

In Pennsylvania, 4,200 acres have been added to the State Forests, making the present total 1,016,383 acres. Most of these areas, as would naturally be expected, are in the mountainous section of eastern and central Pennsylvania, reserves being owned in 26 of the 67 counties of the State. The reason that large areas have not been secured in the western section is due to the fact that most of this land is so valuable, owing to its vast mineral resources of coal, oil, gas, etc., that the price asked is more than the law permits of paying for forest reserves. The two alternatives are either to increase the maximum price per acre or else buy the surface right in case this is deemed advisable.

In 1917 there were 3,600,000 young trees planted on 2,500 acres of State Forests, making the grand total set out to date 25,600,000, replanting 15,500 acres. There are at present in the 4 large and 21 small State nurseries 23,000,000 seedlings, of which about 15,000,000 will be available for spring planting.

One of the most remarkable books in the world is possessed by M. Camille Flammarion, the famous French astronomer. Some years ago a beautiful young lady whose white shoulders he had admired, and who died young, bequeathed her skin to him "to remove and utilize as he thought fit." He accepted the legacy, had the skin removed from the shoulders, and used it for binding a copy of one of his own books, which had been the dead girl's favorite among his writings.

We will pay 5c each for a limited number of the copies of Dec. 5.

The Time Grows Short

Every day brings he close of our 1918 Christmas Club nearer. If you are going to be in a state of preparedness for next Christmas you'd better drop in the bank tomorrow and enter your name as a member of our joy-producing Christmas Club.

Aside from the joyousness of having a plenteous Christmas next year it's the thrifty thing to do. You don't notice the small weekly deposits that you lay away and lo! just when you're wondering how in the world you're going to get through the Christmas season along comes one of our checks.

DON'T PUT IT OFF

Don't procrastinate a day longer. Something else may come along to take your attention and you'll forget to obey that impulse until after the club is closed. As one of our members said, "I don't know how in the world I would have had such a merry Christmas if it hadn't been for my Christmas Club check."

Hoover, Garfield and McAdoo each hold a dictatorship. Someone describes them as Wilson's three aces. Now if he will only put Teddy in charge of munitions he will have a hand that he can bid on.

WON'T IT BE AWFUL THEN

Local readers of the New York World are beginning to wonder just what motive that publication has in using so much perfectly good ink and paper in defense of the liquor industry. It is indeed a rare occasion when the World neglects for one issue to draw a word picture of possible conditions under national prohibition. The editorial force of the World are stepping out of their way to create sentiment against this great reform which promises to become law within a short period of years. Editorially they call attention to infractions of the liquor laws in dry states and hold them up as reasons why no other state should try to curb the traffic. A region of Russia we are told is infested with a race of people who are called Tartars. A part of their religious belief and practice is killing of foreigners who seek to establish relations in their country, which is rich in oils. Should the good Tartars seek to legislate against this practice and were the World published in Petrograd would it oppose such legislation simply because it might be hard to enforce?

A LETTER TO BE PROUD OF

The following letter was received today by the officials of the Clearfield Chapter Red Cross which should be enough to cause every reader hereof to go down in his jeans for a Red Cross membership.

Imagine a young man, hundred miles from home on a Christmas morning; the mails are choked and express companies unable to deliver all packages. The expected little tokens of love did not arrive from home. Christmas would not hold much cheer for him. There is an organization which attends to all these little big things and they attend to it in good time. This organization is the Red Cross. But read the letter. It tells the story better than we can:

Dear Friends:

I received your Christmas package through the Red Cross station at this camp and it was as fine a gift as I could possibly ask for. It is appreciated very much as it was the only one I received. I thank your chapter most heartily for it.

ROY B. HOPKINS,
Recruiting Detachment, 23d Engineers,
Camp Meade, Md.

GASSING US AGAIN

We do not mind being hit when we know the fellow means it but we do most strenuously object to being led up to a banquet table there to be fed a dose of poison in the enemy.

Emperor Wilhelm has let it be known that he intends holding a little peace luncheon in the near future at which the principal "piece de resistance" will be a dish named "no annexation and no indemnities" and which bears the unmistakable marks of having been made in Germany.

Once more Uncle Sam must inform the Kaiser that we are not on his social list and we must do so quickly before for some of our weak knees begin to think the Kaiser really means what he is saying. While we are acknowledging his invitation the War Lord will be preparing to pay the same on a battlefield from the direction of peace. We thought we saw the fluttering wings of the dove of peace.

Don't permit our people to be gassed again.

SOLDIER'S LETTERS

Shenke Bay France
Dear Mother

I received your letter by mail to hear from you. I am well here when these few lines reach you will find you all well. Did Harry and Fred get home for Christmas? You tell my sister to write me a big letter for I long to hear from them. Give my regards to Aunt Ann and Uncle Bob. Nothing particular to say about anything. I am now doing better. I don't have to work and all. Tell all to love with love.

A Fat Pocket Book

has a mighty agreeable feeling just before Christmas. Remember—we give you a check for all your savings—plus interest—for fifty weeks next December, 1918, if you will deposit weekly a small sum in it.

1918 CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB

It is an easy way of systematic saving, and makes you sure of having plenty of money for 1918 Christmas. If you haven't joined, foresight urges you to be one of the hundreds who already have shown their wisdom. Hand some free circular tells all about it.

"FOREST LEAVES"

Dr. J. J. Rothrock, Pennsylvania's first Commissioner of Forestry, says that during his lifetime he has seen other little or Williams for a go with one seventh of the State's area cease to produce wealth. He says of one section "Wooded settled cleared land, since 1725"

Never backside again a forest fire from the bottom of a mountain. You may burn up some of your own property if you do. Go to the top and work down hill.

Pennsylvania once the richest lumber producing State in the Union, now twenty, and going down. Her cut is now about one fifth of Louisiana's.

Every year or two some one reports that the State Forests are not as good as they used to be. The foresters say it is impracticable.

Every camp site located on the State Forests is carefully surveyed and tied to some permanent landmark. About 75 camp site leases a new location.

Instead of planting a horse chestnut why not plant a real nut tree? The nuts, hickories, or English walnuts cost very little more than horse chestnuts, make less litter, and produce a valuable crop.

Absorbent cotton, vests, hose, and handkerchiefs are now being made from wood in Germany. And so the Canadian Forestry found.

Pennsylvania has about 2,000,000 acres of waste farm land—land once cleared and farmed, but now abandoned. It should be planted to trees.

Paper blankets have been made in every way as effective as five pound wool blankets, and are much lighter and heavier. They may be considered an adjunct of the home, as in newspapers.

The municipal forest of Baden, Germany yields an annual profit of $75 per acre. Half of it is for the State, the other half for the local community. The town of Baden, Germany, pays for the forest of $12.11 per acre per year.

The annual value of the forest was the product of the United States $1,000,000. Do not let any of it

RELIEVED PAIN IN SHORT TIME

Suffering Intensely, Fearing Paralysis,
Mrs. Harry Lane Tries
Modern Remedy.

How quickly this modern remedy gives results is shown by the statement of Mrs. Harry Lane of 1087 West Eighteenth street, Tyrone, Pa. She says:

"I suffered intensely for some time with a severe pain in my shoulder and arm which was so severe at times that I began to fear paralysis."

"Nothing I did gave me relief until a friend advised me to use 20TH CENTURY LINIMENT."

"With the first application I experienced relief and with a short treatment the pain was entirely removed. I am sure I will be glad to recommend 20TH CENTURY LINIMENT to my friends."

Get this modern remedy at your druggist's or at your general store, 50 cents and $1.

SOME FORESTRY STATISTICS

The total area covered by virgin timber in Pennsylvania is not over 200,000 acres, and is probably nearer 100,000 acres. Fifty years ago the area was over 15,000,000 acres.

In Pennsylvania, 4,200 acres have been added to the State Forests, making the present total 1,016,383 acres. Most of these areas, as would naturally be expected, are in the mountainous section of eastern and central Pennsylvania, reserves being owned in 26 of the 67 counties of the State. The reason that large areas have not been secured in the western section is due to the fact that most of this land is so valuable, owing to its vast mineral resources of coal, oil, gas, etc., that the price asked is more than the law permits of paying for forest reserves. The two alternatives are either to increase the maximum price per acre or else buy the surface right in case this is deemed advisable.

In 1917 there were 3,600,000 young trees planted on 2,500 acres of State Forests, making the grand total set out to date 25,600,000, replanting 15,500 acres. There are at present in the 4 large and 21 small State nurseries 23,000,000 seedlings, of which about 15,000,000 will be available for spring planting.

One of the most remarkable books in the world is possessed by M. Camille Flammarion, the famous French astronomer. Some years ago a beautiful young lady whose white shoulders he had admired, and who died young, bequeathed her skin to him "to remove and utilize as he thought fit." He accepted the legacy, had the skin removed from the shoulders, and used it for binding a copy of one of his own books, which had been the dead girl's favorite among his writings.

We will pay 5c each for a limited number of the copies of Dec. 5.

The Time Grows Short

Every day brings he close of our 1918 Christmas Club nearer. If you are going to be in a state of preparedness for next Christmas you'd better drop in the bank tomorrow and enter your name as a member of our joy-producing Christmas Club.

Aside from the joyousness of having a plenteous Christmas next year it's the thrifty thing to do. You don't notice the small weekly deposits that you lay away and lo! just when you're wondering how in the world you're going to get through the Christmas season along comes one of our checks.

DON'T PUT IT OFF

Don't procrastinate a day longer. Something else may come along to take your attention and you'll forget to obey that impulse until after the club is closed. As one of our members said, "I don't know how in the world I would have had such a merry Christmas if it hadn't been for my Christmas Club check."

FIRST ELECTION IN 1789

George Washington of Virginia, Receiving Sixty-Nine Votes From Ten States, Chosen President.

The first election for president of the United States occurred in the states which ratified the Constitution on the first Wednesday of January, the 7th, 1789. Only ten of the thirteen states voted in that election, New York, Rhode Island and North Carolina not voting. In five of the states, viz., Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, New Jersey and South Carolina, the people did not vote, the presidential electors being chosen by the state legislatures.

At that time the Constitution required the presidential electors to vote for two persons, the one receiving the majority to be president and the one receiving the next greatest number to be vice president. There had been no conventions held, no nominations made and no platforms adopted. The presidential electors were left without instructions, to vote as they pleased or according to their own discretion.

The ten states which constituted the first electoral college had 73 votes, viz., Connecticut, 7; Delaware, 3; Georgia, 5; Maryland, 8; Massachusetts, 10; New Hampshire, 5; New Jersey, 6; Pennsylvania, 10; South Carolina, 7; Virginia, 12. On the first ballot, each of the 73 electors voting for two persons, the vote resulted:

For George Washington of Virginia, 69; John Adams of Massachusetts, 34; John Jay of New York, 9; Robert H. Harrison of Maryland, 6; John Rutledge of South Carolina, 6; John Hancock of Massachusetts, 4; George Clinton of New York, 3; Samuel Huntington of Connecticut, 2; John Milton of Georgia, 1; Benjamin Lincoln of Massachusetts, 1; Edward Telfair of Georgia, 1. This ballot made Washington president and John Adams, the next highest, vice president.

Germany Short of Food.

The real food situation in Germany is the important puzzle of the war. The United States food administration has got hold of some figures on the standard German ration for non-combatants, which seem to indicate that the Germans are in desperate straits. Figured in calories, the food value of this ration is only 10,000. This is not sufficient nourishment to keep a man of 140 pounds from losing weight steadily, even if he does nothing but lie on his back for 24 hours a day. If he has a week to do, he will eat up his fat and then his muscular tissue, so much the faster. If the figures are correct and are not supplemented by other rations not mentioned, the civilian population of Germany must inevitably be weakening fast.—Exchange.

The Tuna Angler.

Southern California and Santa Catalina Island in particular, has produced two game fishes prominent in the annals of the world's sport, says the American Angler. One is the leaping tuna; the other the swordfish. The tuna is game for the well-conditioned athlete. The man who takes a large one with the rod must be an athlete. He must be ready for a continuous round of from one to four hours, keyed up to the highest excitement, as if he gives in and tries to rest the tuna rests twice as fast.

To obtain the full enjoyment of tuna angling the rod should be of 14 ounces, the line No. 21 and the fish should not weigh more than 200 pounds.

In many places in the New Zealand region, one has only to place one's walking stick into the ground a few inches and then remove it, and a jet of steam is emitted.

DAIRY FACTS

GIVING MILK TO DAIRY CALF

Guesswork in Apportionment Is Expensive in More Ways Than One—Good Rule Is Given.

"Guesswork in apportioning milk to the dairy calf is expensive both from the fact that irregular amounts often cause digestive troubles and because more milk than necessary is frequently fed." This statement is quoted from Circular No. 292, published by the Illinois Experiment station, Urbana, Ill.

A general rule is to feed one pound of whole or skimmed milk to each eight pounds of live weight, rarely feeding in excess of 12 pounds of either. The schedule of feeding used by the Illinois station calls for four pounds of whole milk to a Jersey calf the first two days; six to eight pounds from the third to twenty-eight days; three to four pounds of both skim milk and whole milk from twenty-eight to thirty-six days; eight to ten pounds skim milk from thirty-six to fifty-six days; and ten to twelve pounds from fifty-six to ninety-two days. A heifer calf is given somewhat more milk at a younger age, though rarely does the total fed go above 12 pounds.

PROPER GROWTH OF CALVES

Puzzling Question to Gray Heads in Calf Business—Much Depends on Ration Furnished.

How fast should my calves grow? is a puzzling question even to gray heads in the calf-raising business. This will depend to a large extent on the kind of ration fed, but in order for any ration to be considered a definite success, the calves should show a gain of an inch a month a day each day for the first six months. Many ordinary rations will give a gain of an inch and a half in six months.

In calves these same calves should be fed a ration of one and one-half to two pounds of milk for the first half year. If the ration is well balanced, the calves will have a definite gain in weight and size during this first period. After six months this ration is usually changed and the weight outside the height. At one month of age a normal calf of any breed weighs, approximately, three pounds for each inch in height, but at the end of the six months period the weight has increased to six and one-half pounds for each inch in height. From that time on there is a continued increase in the relation of weight to height until maturity.

BUTTER MAKER SHOULD KNOW

Must Have Cream and Churn in Such Manner That He Will Make Best Quality of Butter.

The cream maker should know how to handle his cream and churn in such a manner that he will make the best quality of butter from it. The cream must be placed evenly and then churned at the proper temperature. If the cream is too thick, it will not churn properly. If it is too thin, it will not make a good butter. The cream should be churned at a temperature of 55 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit. If it is too hot, it will not churn properly. If it is too cold, it will not make a good butter.

BARREL CHURNS IS EXCELLENT

Permits Conversion of Cream Against Sides Churned, For Circulation—It Is a Fact.

It has been found that the type of churn used in the dairy has a great influence on the quality of the butter. The barrel churn is considered to be the best for the purpose. It permits the cream to be churned against the sides of the churn, which is a great advantage. This is a fact that is well known to all who are interested in the dairy business.

TWEEDS FOR SCHOOL FROCKS

Are Among the Newest and Also the Most Practical Materials for Girls' Suits.

A charming tweed suit for a school girl is one of the latest and most practical designs. It is in black and white, yet the pattern is woven so skillfully that it gives a gray effect that is inimitable and splendid to the eye. The skirt is straight and plain, and the blouse is slightly high waisted, with belt and straps of the same material. It has hip pockets and the even-shouldered flat collar and revers. With this may be worn a hat in colors in a soft purple shade, simply adorned with a band of black ribbon. Tweeds are the newest and most practical material for girls.

Delightfully simple and school frocks are made in rather blue poplin with a little suggestion of silk embroidery on the collar, cuffs and sash ends. This simple garment merely hangs in straight pleats from a yoke, yet will prove most useful and becoming to youth.

Dark shades are to be worn this season—the grays, navys and browns, and the tele-degreed with dark greens are in vogue.

HANDMADE FLOWERS ON HATS

Newest Trending Consists of Calla Lilies, Orchids and Clematis in Varied Colorings.

Quite the newest and most charming thing to do with your hat is to trim it with flowers that are handmade. The shops are showing beautiful things made of chenille and fine nets. For instance, there are calla lilies, orchids, clematis and tiger lilies, as well as butterflies in varied and brilliant colorings. Many shades of chenille are used to make the butterfly look as if it were poised upon the gown. The bride is included in the new trimming vogue. Her wreath of yore was made up of white wax flowers; now she wears adorable white silk roses set in silver with long sprays of silver. And her corsage matches.

Nineties fingers can make most attractive bows out of hand-trimmed ribbons. One sees nosegays, glories, poppies, pansies, sweet peas, etc., all of the finest ribbon.

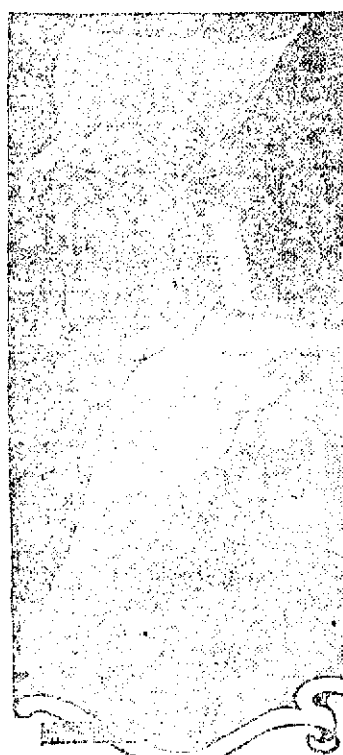

ZOUAVES WILL BE POPULAR

Idea Applied to Both Skirt and Jacket in Collection of Spring Models From Paris.

Possibly the most salient feature of the collection of models for spring brought over to New York from Paris is the predominance of the zouave tunic. This does not apply only to the skirt, for the elongated jacket is a feature of the zouave dress, as is also the bound-in lining, and these features are here repeated and played upon in this collection.

While it may not seem that there is anything startlingly new in a dropped waistline, the manner in which the hips are bound, the jacket and the showing of the blouse section under the jacket is distinctive. It produces a really another silhouette which, although narrow, is not straight and binds in around the hips.

DAINTY BOUDOIR CAP

Sometimes you see a thing and you call it pretty or beautiful for lack of a word that would express the real excitement and charm of the thing you were watching. The dainty boudoir cap is just that sort of thing. It has that Dutch effect, new this season, but which has been in vogue on and off for many years. The Venetian lace is held in place with a narrow pique blue ribbon.

FIRST AUTHENTIC STORY FROM BEHIND THE DENSE WAR VEIL OF GERMANY

Remarkable Details of How the Common German Soldier Lives and Fights Made Public for the First Time.

UNVEILS WHAT ALL GERMANY TRIED TO HIDE

There are war stories, and there are war stories. From Germany there have been a number of war stories, but these, unfortunately, have been written by German writers, and as it may suit the author to put down what he wants, so they have tried to support the vast and intricate propaganda that Germany is striving to plant wherever men read.

But a real war story is a story that has been written by a common soldier who has been in the front lines, and who has seen the war from the inside. This is the story that is being told in "The War Veil of Germany".
